

Why choose Zenitel

Why Transportation operators and integrators choose Zenitel

At Zenitel, we understand that clear, reliable communication is essential for keeping passengers and staff safe, informed, and on the move. Being able to hear, be heard, and be understood is critical in every announcement - whether emergency or informational.

Zenitel's complete audio portfolio and integrated solutions, delivered by our specialist Transportation Team, are designed to help you achieve exactly this. As audio experts with hundreds of successful deployments, our critical communication systems are trusted to perform and integrate seamlessly under pressure and in challenging environments.

Trusted by transport operators worldwide, Zenitel delivers the reliability, performance, and proven best practices needed for audio that truly moves you.

Proven Expertise in Transportation

With decades of experience across rail, metro, tram, bus, tunnels, and airports, Zenitel systems power communication in more than 4,000 stations worldwide.

We meet stringent international and transportation-specific standards for safety, performance, and environmental compliance, continuously adapting to the evolving needs of transport operators. We can tailor our equipment to meet specific type-approval requirements, ensuring your system performs flawlessly when it matters most.

Importantly, our PAVA products are designed for transportation from the outset not adapted from other industries and made to fit. This ensures every system is purpose-built for the unique challenges and safety-critical demands of the transportation environment.

Safety-Critical Performance

When safety is on the line, clarity matters. Our Public Address and Voice Alarm (PAVA) and intercom systems are perfect for the demanding requirements of transportation environments.

Intelligent, Integrated Systems

We understand that integration with other systems, such as automatic broadcast systems and central control systems must be seamless and straightforward.

Our fully IP-based audio platform VIPA makes this easy, enabling smooth interoperability with your existing infrastructure. In addition, we offer our own software-based management and audio platform, iVENCs, designed specifically for intelligent control, monitoring, and management of transport communications.

The result is simplified integration, reduced costs, and smoother daily operations all within a unified communication platform.

End-to-End Project Support

From design and commissioning to long-term maintenance, Zenitel partners with you at every stage to ensure successful delivery.

Our expert team provides customisable services that reduce risk, complement your in-house capabilities, and draw on decades of experience overcoming complex challenges across global transport networks.

Global Reach, Local Expertise

Zenitel combines global experience with local presence. We have delivered complex transport communication projects around the world, managing compliance, logistics, and regional regulations.

Wherever you operate, our centres of excellence, certified partners, and local teams provide responsive, hands-on support throughout your system's lifecycle.

“Zenitel systems power communication in more than 4,000 transportation stations worldwide.”

Innovation Driven by You

Your feedback and that of transport operators worldwide directly shapes our product roadmap.

We continuously invest, innovate and develop new technology, ensuring our solutions evolve to meet the changing demands of the transportation sector, today and into the future. With industry-leading cyber security for complete peace of mind.

Sustainability at the Core

Zenitel supports your ESG goals with durable, energy-efficient systems designed to reduce waste, extend product lifespan, and minimise environmental impact.

“Innovation. Compliance. Reliability.
Backed by decades of expertise and uncompromising quality.”

Built for Quality and Reliability

Engineered, Designed & Developed in Europe, Zenitel products are built to the highest standards to ensure, intelligibility, uptime and longevity even in the most challenging transport environments.

Long-Term Partnerships

Successful, long-term partnerships are central to our strategy and stand as a testament to our proven work in the transportation market.

Wherever your passengers are going, trust that Zenitel is with you every step of the way.

Sign up to our newsletter